

Get to know Hoda Kotb's favorite beach

NBC's "Today" host Hoda Kotb loves to escape New York and head to Rehoboth, a beach town "that makes you feel like home." Her mom, Sameha "Sami" Kotb, owns a condo in the charming Delaware town, and family and friends gather often throughout the year. Hoda has even visited with co-host Kathie Lee Gifford for the show as well as fun.

(Photo: Virginia Sherwood/NBC Universal, Inc.)

Best place to eat

Go Fish! on Rehoboth Avenue. "It's run by a British woman we have grown to love named Alison (Blyth). They do fish and chips but they cook it in some way that's very clean. I challenge you to say, short of London, England, where you can get such good fish and chips. They are succulent and light. Sometimes we'll do two meals there. It's really, really delicious." 24 Rehoboth Ave.; 302-226-1044; gofishdelaware.com

Finish off a meal of fish and chips, bangers and mash or fisherman's pie with the house dessert, sticky toffee pudding. You might even see Hoda at the next table over. (Photo: GoFish!)